HORSES THAT WOULDN'T DROWN

Remarkable Deeds Recorded by Two Veracious Chroniclers.

An Albanian who has just returned from the east, where freshets have been the rule, tells the following about a horse which had been attached to a foot bridge crossing a brook, to keep the structure from going adrift. The flood finally swept horse and bridge down stream. Later, the bridge was discovered lodged against the bank, with the horse sitting quietly on the former.

A bystander who had listened intently to this tale, remarked quietly: "I see you're a bit of a horse man, aren't you?"

"Indeed? What was it?" asked the story teller.

"Ye see," was the reply, "after the horse I see was took down stream, no-buddy ever 'spected to see him alive again. But he was a powerful sort o' brute, an' 'bout a hour arterward we see him a comin' up a stream a-pullin' the blame old bridge arter him!"—Albany Evening Journal.

The extraordinary popularity of fine white goods this summer makes the choice of Starch a matter of great importance. Defiance Starch, being free from all injurious chemicals, is the only one which is safe to use on fine fabrics. Its great strength as a stiffener makes half the usual quantity of Starch necessary, with the result of perfect finish, equal to that when the goods were new.

Femininity.

"Please hold up your hands!"

When the pedestrian heard the form of request he knew the woman foot-pat was upon him.

"I'd much rather have yours to hold," he responded, gallantly.

"Well, I must say you are a rude thing," she rejoined, and lowered her weapon, thus closing the incident.

Training the English Young Idea.

In accordance with a suggestion made at the annual meeting of the Hunt the other day the Bedale Hounds met near a village school, the object lesson in hunting, and to inspire in their minds a respect and regard for both bounds and hunters.—Yorkshire (Eng.) Post.

With a smooth iron and Defiance Starch, you can launder your shirt-waist just as well at home as the steam laundry can; it will have the proper stiffness and finish, there will be less wear and tear of the goods, and it will be a positive pleasure to use a Starch that does not stick to the iron.

A Delicate Job.

Doctor—The increasing deafness of your wife is merely an indication of advancing years, and you can tell her that.

Husband—Hum! would you mind telling her that yourself, doctor?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Give Defiance Starch a fair trial—try it for both hot and cold starching, and if you don't think you do better work, in less time and at smaller cost, return it and your grocer will give you back your money.

EASY PLAN FOR BUTCHERING.

How to Arrange Block and Tackle to Handle the Hogs.

A block with three pulleys for the upper and a block with two pulleys and becket for the lower and plenty of rope, from 50 to 100 feet is about the right length, are required for the device shown in the accompanying illustration.

A tree with a limb of suitable size branching out, to which fasten the upper block, a barrel, a hog hook and a garmel are also needed.

Tackle to Aid in Butchering.

The water, says the Prairie Farmer, should be from 185 to 195 degrees. Scald the front end first, tie a rope and swing the carcass into the barrel. When properly scalded lift out and lay on a small table or platform.

Place the hog hook in the mouth and attach to the block again and scald the other end. Then place the garmel stick and again attach the block and tackle, draw up to a convenient distance from the ground and tie up your rope and your hog is ready to dress. After it is dressed swing it higher and leave to cool.

THE DAIRY HERD.

Pertinent Suggestions by Dr. David Roberts, Cattle Specialist.

The principal dairy breeds are Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey, Ayrshire and Brown Swiss.

There are several other dairy breeds, such as the French Canadian, Kerry and Dutch Belted, etc., but these are rather scarce at present.

In buying dairy cows, we have a different standard to go by than in selecting beef animals.

A dairy cow is a machine that turns feed into milk and cream. So we must look for one that will convert the greatest quantity of feed into the most milk and cream. The type of dairy cow we want is a cow weighing about 1,000 pounds. She must have a lean head and neck. Her eyes should be clear and large, indicating health and temperament. Her body should be narrow over the shoulders and broad at the hips and rump. She should have a large chest, indicating vitality. Her pouch or belly should be large, showing that she is able to consume a large amount of rough feed.

She should have a set of large, branching milk veins leading to a well-developed udder, on which are placed four good-sized teats.

She should carry very little flesh. Before introducing any new cows into the stable, have them tuberculin tested to avoid bringing any cows affected with this disease among your healthy herd.

Watch for any discharge that might be due to abortion, as this is another disease you must watch.

If you notice any discharge of this nature, wash out the vagina with a good antiseptic solution and keep the cow alone until cured.—Farmers' Voice.

THE VETERINARIAN.

There Should Be a Place for Him in Every Rural Community.

There are now in the United States several good veterinary colleges, and some of our universities are also graduating veterinarians. The graduates are being sent out into various parts of the country to build up a practice or are, rather, finding their own practice in chosen locations. These men often find it a difficult matter to get the patronage of farmers, while in the city they find abundant room and demand for their services.

They should be heartily welcomed into the rural districts, says Farmers' Review, and should be employed in every possible case. They are a great help to the live stock industry of the country. Not the least of their good works is driving out the quacks that are operating among the live stock. There are numerous so-called "horse doctors" that pretend to have veterinary information, and yet have had no training whatever. Much of their practice is mal-practice and some of their remedies are based on nothing better than tradition.

The properly trained veterinarian is letting in the light, and in time the quack will find no call for his services. The suffering among farm animals is doubtless greater than most people suspect, and some of these sufferings are very quickly relieved by the veterinarians that understand their business. The better the efficient veterinarians thrive the better it will be for the live stock interests of the country.

HOG BREEDING.

Directions for the Proper Care of Sows for Spring Pigs.

After breeding the sow may safely run for a month or two with the general herd, but must not receive the fattening rations of those that are being prepared for market. Whenever the weather permits she should have access to a field of rye or some other forage substitute. It is not enough that she should have such food, but she needs the pleasure of hustling for it. The resulting exercise and contentment are important. In case she cannot find enough of such food it should be supplemented by alfalfa hay or something similar.

During winter, particularly in very cold weather, some corn may be fed, but the grain feed should be largely confined to oats, wheat, barley, rye, beans and peas. All these grains are not necessary, neither is it wise to feed just one, but some variety should be furnished. What grains are used should be determined by their comparative cost. The evening meal should be sufficient to satisfy the appetite. Less than that is unwise economy; more is waste. Give plenty of pure water.

The sow should enjoy a comfortable shed, dry, floored, roomy, so tight as to exclude the wind, and having a south window. A sash filled with glass or covered with white cloth and arranged to open and shut easily is worth more than it costs, says Farm and Home. The door, about two feet wide by three feet high, is most convenient at one corner. Along one side of this pen should be a trough for all liquid and grain food and of such size and shape as to serve as a protection for the little pigs against being overlaid by the mother. On the other three sides, except in front of the door, an eight-inch board, eight inches above the floor, will make a good fence. Obviously in winter the door will be closed at night and the window left open.

THE FEEDING PROBLEM.

First the breed, then the feed and you will have stock indeed.

Patronize your local breeder of pure stock. You may have some stock to sell some other and breeders can help each other a lot by co-operating.

A good animal is always more likely to prove profitable than a poor animal, no matter at what low price the latter may be obtained.

The horse stable should be kept as clean and dry as possible.

A bulky bossy makes a bulky bull.

A raw egg will often check the scours quickly. Hard boiled eggs fed with meal or middlings are also good.

The one danger of a calf feeder is that it may be allowed to become sour. Boil the nipple in a little lime water at least twice a week.

A Georgia dairyman claims to have made $28 net in one year from one cow and an acre of land. He also had $20 worth of manure from this cow. Can anyone report a better return?

Why neglect the calves? A poorly fed calf cannot make a good cow, neither will it bring good money as beef or veal. Give them good pasture, good grain, water and frequent changes of rations.

DRIVING THREE HORSES.

It Can Be Done with an Ordinary Pair of Double Lines.

If you have only an ordinary pair of double lines and desire to drive three horses, attach the bits a, b, c as shown in sketch. Tie the two outside horses to the bits of the center horse with a short rope or strap. One can have perfect control of horses and by lengthening or shortening the tie ropes they will walk near or wide apart. Do not get these tie ropes too short, says Farm and Home, or the horses will step on each other's ankles when turning. A short strap with two snaps and a buckle serves well, allowing for slack if needed.

Spilling the Heifers.

It is not difficult to spoil a young heifer while yet a calf so that she will be of much less value when she becomes a milk cow. If care is used during early training the young heifer can be made to stand as quietly as an old cow. One trouble is caused by children who play with the calves and teach them to butt. The children handle the calves' heads and in pushing against their forehead soon learn them to push. This may be fun for the children, but it spoils the calves as they are ever after bad lookers and often must be disposed of. They should be early broken to lead and to stand anywhere with a halter. I give them salt and bran when they are quite young and teach them to be handled all over, says a writer in Farm and Home, then when they become older they stand quietly whenever I stop.

How to Purchase Calves.

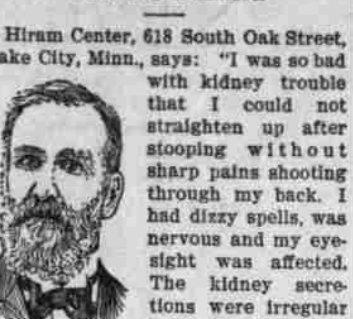

In order to make any feeding operation profitable the stock must be obtained at a reasonable price, because even a pure-bred animal will not bring more on the block than its value for meat, and thus the original cost of the animal together with the cost of the feed must be smaller than the selling price. Calves may be bought by the pound or by the head, the latter being the most common way of buying and selling in the west and southwest. The suggestion is made that feeders unaccustomed to handling young cattle should buy them by the pound, because they are likely to overestimate their weight, thus at the outset assuming a serious handicap in a profitable sale.—Ernest G. Ritzman.

The Care of the Straw.

Well-built strawstacks are the exception. Straw is valuable for sale and for bedding. Fix up the stack by raking down all the sides until they are perpendicular and put on a cap of good long rye straw or timothy hay. It will pay to take care of the stack.

A TERRIBLE CONDITION.

Tortured by Sharp Twinges, Shooting Pains and Dizziness.

I was in a terrible condition, but Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have enjoyed perfect health since."

THAT SWEET CHILD.

"You'll be too old to sit on people's knees soon, Dolly."

"Oh, no, I won't, auntie! I'm not half as old as sister and she sits on Mr. Wilson's knee. I'm never going to be too old for that sort of thing!"

For Cigar Smokers.

When you smoke a cigar you want a good one. A poor cigar is a rank abomination and a stench in your own nostrils and in those of your friends within smelling distance.

The trouble with most of us is to find a cigar with rich, satisfying aroma and easy drawing, qualities without paying an exorbitant price for it. It remained for Frank P. Lewis of Peoria, Ill., to solve the problem for us. His Lewis' Single Binder cigar is without doubt the peer of any brand of 10c cigars on the market.

The Lewis' Single Binder cigar is wrapped in tinfoil and reaches the smoker as fresh as when leaving the factory. Its smooth, rich, satisfying smoking qualities are a delight both to the palate and the nostrils of cigar connoisseurs everywhere. In spite of the fact that the Lewis factory employ no traveling men the sales this year will exceed 9,000,000, the demand being created solely on the high quality of the tobacco used.

NASTY.

He—Do you think glasses would make me look more intellectual?

She—Well, if I were you I'd try them. They certainly couldn't hurt any.

Sheer white goods, in fact, any fine wash goods when new, owe much of their attractiveness to the way they are laundered, this being done in a manner to enhance their textile beauty. Home laundering would be equally satisfactory if proper attention was given to starching, the first essential being good Starch, which has sufficient strength to stiffen, without thickening the goods. Try Defiance Starch and you will be pleasantly surprised at the improved appearance of your work.

Good Workers Ill Rewarded.

Sweeney and Pannartz, the two Germans who were the first to print books in Rome, used paper and types of excellent quality. Their ink on pages printed more than 400 years ago can be read in blackness with the best of the present day. Yet with all their labors they often lacked bread. In a petition to the pope they informed his holiness that their house was full of poor sheets, but they had nothing to eat.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

DRANK WITH HIS FEET.

Clergyman Knew the Best Place to Put the Whisky.

There was no fire in the smoking car and everybody was blue and tremulous with cold.

"My feet fairly ache," said a clergyman.

Then a drummer, winking at his neighbors, pulled out a flask of whisky.

"Here's the best thing going for cold feet, friend," he said.

And the clergyman extended his hand for the bottle eagerly.

"You bet it is," said he.

He poured a huge drink into the glass, lifted it toward the drummer with a "Here's looking at you, sir," and then, slipping off his boots, emptied the whisky into them.

"In two minutes my ice-cold feet," he said, "will be in a warm glow. Whisky poured into the boots warms the feet like a hot stove."

BLACK, ITCHING SPOTS ON FACE.

Physician Called It Eczema in Worst Form—Patient Despaired of Cure—Cuticura Remedies Cured Her.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black blotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of— After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in the worst form. Their treatment did me no good. Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their services. My husband purchased a single set of the Cuticura Remedies, which entirely stopped the breaking out. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that ever splotch was entirely gone. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema since, which was three years ago. Mrs. Lizzie E. Sledge, 540 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala., Oct. 28, 1905."

Charming an Audience.

A young lawyer with political aspirations was about to make the first important speech of his career. He knew Speaker Cannon, and ventured to ask his advice in the matter of addressing an audience.

"My son," said the veteran, "find out what interests your audience and talk to it on that subject. If you find you can't strike the oil of its attention, stop boring it!"—Success Magazine.

Laundry work at home would be much more satisfactory if the right Starch were used.

In order to get the desired stiffness, it is usually necessary to use so much starch that the beauty and fineness of the fabric is hidden behind a paste of varying thickness, which not only destroys the appearance, but also affects the wearing quality of the goods. This trouble can be entirely overcome by using Defiance Starch, as it can be applied much more thinly because of its greater strength than other makes.

Dr. C. F. Simmons, San Antonio, Texas. St. Jo, Texas, April 20, 1907.

Dear Sir:—I have just returned from a visit to your 95,000-acre ranch, where I have been for the purpose of investigating the conditions of soil, climate, rainfall, etc., and its adaptability to general farming, truck-growing and fruits.

I found conditions really better than I expected, and fully up to representations in your literature. The soil seems to be of fine quality and of such variety as to make diversified farming easy and profitable.

While on the ranch I had the pleasure of visiting Hall, Frenchman, Turkey Creek, Windmill, Muley Cow and Headquarters pastures. I did not see the Votaw pastures but was assured by disinterested parties that it was even better than that which I examined, and believing this I came home perfectly satisfied that you have the best proposition for the poor man, in Southwest Texas.

On farms adjoining your ranch I saw fine crops growing without irrigation, and this I consider remarkable in view of the severe drought, which obtains at this time over the entire state.

I am sure this will prove to be a fine fruit-growing section, especially for grapes, figs and berries, and that the water supply is sufficient to prove to be proved by the flowing artesian wells in various parts of pasture, and this also settles the truck growing proposition.

You have my hearty endorsement on both your lands and plan of sale.

Very truly yours,
DR. C. F. SIMMONS.

Remember—you get a truck or fruit farm from 10 to 640 acres in the finest country in the world, and two town lots for $210.
